ACADEMIC TEACHING

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND

Teaching Assistant: Movement Integration Fall 2024
 This course provides introductory, theoretical, and technical training that explores the body's relationship to movement, space, and self, often in a slow and deliberate manner. We explore the usefulness of habitual movement patterns with a focus on internal investigation and a shift away from external shapes and pictures.

Workshop: Somatics & Dance Fall 2020, Fall 2022, Spring 2024
 Functional somatics class and lecture for undergraduate dance majors. An introduction to the philosophy and practice of the Feldenkrais Method and contemporary supporting research in neurobiology.

SWEET BRIAR COLLEGE

Workshop: Composition Fall 2024
 Creative process workshop with guided improvisation for undergraduate dance majors. Focuses on working in a laboratory-style setting, in-class sharing, and written reflection.

Workshop: Somatics & Dance Fall 2021
 Functional somatics class and lecture for undergraduate dance majors. An introduction to the philosophy and practice of the Feldenkrais Method and contemporary supporting research in neurobiology.

TEACHING AREAS

Choreographic Process

The lessons of this course will help students craft performance work, recognize performance choices which are meaningful to them, and guide their own creative practice on an ongoing basis.

Movement Improvisation

This course hones students' tools for generating movement and responding to site, music, rhythm, space, time, narrative, lighting and each other.

Modern Dance Technique

This course focuses on the interrelated practices of warming up, conditioning, learning movement, rehearsing with others, and performing choreography.

Feldenkrais Method - Awareness Through Movement®

This course features themed units in the Feldenkrais Method of Somatic Education. Each class uses slow, mindful movement patterns, guided awareness and visualization to clarify students' self-image in action.

Somatic Forms

This course introduces the somatic work of Moshe Feldenkrais, Bonnie Bainbridge Cohen, and Irmgard Bartenieff. Through practice and research, investigate the roots of their work in martial arts, dance and physics, as well as learning from modern advances in neuroscience and critical theory.
